Alexei Shulgin

In my talk at Sankt Interface I will speak about the 90's - time of hopes and delusions, about online communities and collaborations, and also how few projects of the “heroic” net art scene of the 90's came to life. Back then, both aesthetic and communication qualities of the new, online world were being formed through revolutionary artistic projects and activities. More specifically – I will focus on two interface-related projects of mine – Form Art and Desktop IS that resulted from intense online communication.
